

Miguel Cabrera recently became the newest member to the exclusive 3,000 hit club in MLB. On 4/20/22, Cabrera went 3-4 and after the game, when a reporter asked Cabrera about how he felt about being one hit away, Cabrera's reply was...

Marly Rivera
@MarlyRiveraESPN

Miguel Cabrera when I asked him about being 1 hit away from 3,000 after going 3-for-4 vs Yankees tonight: "Who the f— cares. We lost. When has this game ever been about individual accomplishments?"

10:35 PM · Apr 20, 2022 from Detroit, MI

 4.7K  Reply  Share

Baseball will forever and always be a team sport. When players, teams, and at the amateur level...parents...buy into the team first concept... that's when the team and the individuals prosper.

On the latest video, all three Owner/Directors of Power Baseball discuss stories, experience, and insight on the importance to #BringItBack and having all people involved (players, coaches, and supporters) on the same wavelength of putting the team first.

Preview of video topic highlights:

- "Bent Nickel" concept
- Parallels between Minor League Baseball and Travel Baseball
- Importance of everyone "buying in" to a team concept
- Lottery Ticket analogy
- What are evaluators really looking for?
- Not worrying about "Keeping up with the Jones"

Click the link below to hear the entire conversation!

Round Table Episode 1

